MANDATORY REPORTER ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Under the laws of {{AGENCY_STATE}} and applicable federal law, employees and contractors of {{AGENCY_NAME}} who provide care to vulnerable adults and/or children are mandated reporters of suspected abuse, neglect, exploitation, or self-neglect.

What to Report

- Physical abuse or signs of physical injury (bruises, burns, fractures)
- Sexual abuse or sexually inappropriate contact
- Emotional or psychological abuse
- Neglect, including caregiver neglect, self-neglect, and abandonment
- Financial exploitation, theft, or coercion
- Unsafe or unsanitary living conditions that endanger the client

How and When to Report

- Report immediately — do not wait until the end of your shift.
- First, ensure the client is safe and call 911 if there is an immediate threat.
- Report to your supervisor at {{AGENCY_PHONE}}.
- Report to Adult Protective Services / Child Protective Services as required by law: {{APS_PHONE}} / {{CPS_PHONE}}.
- Document what you observed (objective facts, not opinions) as soon as practical.

Confidentiality and Protection

Reports are confidential to the extent permitted by law. Mandated reporters acting in good faith are immune from civil and criminal liability. Retaliation against a mandated reporter is prohibited and is itself a reportable offense.

Penalties for Failure to Report

Failure to report suspected abuse, neglect, or exploitation may result in criminal penalties under {{AGENCY_STATE}} law, civil liability, loss of professional licensure, and termination.
